Packing a WRG Catering cooker

Bringing the WRG Catering Cooker will inevitably take up a lot of space within our vans. This guide will provide you with the best method to load the cooker so it is secure and protected.

Step 1:

- Put the whiteboard in its holder.
- Install the cooker with its back to the passenger side wheel-arch and tight against the front bulkhead.
- Put on brakes and strap it in to position .
- Install food box behind it.

Step 2:

- Install the fridge and the freezer with their backs to the driver side wheel-arch and tight against the front bulkhead and strap them in.
- Install the DVD unit on top of the fridge and the freezer and then the red box of cooker bits behind that and strap them in.

Step 3:

- Load gas bottles and strap them in
- Load cool box, bin and cooks trolley as shown plus mops, brooms, etc.

Step 4:

- Cover the middle seats, to protect them from grease, then load the griddle onto them.
- Strap it in securely taking the ratchet strap around the seats and through the griddle handles.
- Three curver boxes go on the floor. Burco and First Aid kit on top of them.
- Six curver boxes go on the back seat.
- Strap them in taking the ratchet strap around the head rests of the seats.

Key Facts/Important Information:

- ✓ Make sure you pack all the bits of the Cooker; gas bottle(s), red box of burners, etc.
- ✓ Make sure the gas connection at the rear of the cooker is not damaged during loading and the cooker is correctly lashed so it can't be damaged in transit
- ✓ Do not load anything heavy or hard on top of the Cooker as it will damage the gas jets. Personal Protective Equipment bags are acceptable.
