Waste management and you

Waste is anything that you discard or intend to discard. Discarding doesn't just mean throwing away it also covers activities and operations such as recycling and recovery.

Waste hierarchy;

TAKE FIVE

During the day take 5 minutes to tidy up around your workspace.

Top tips:

- Store materials separately and don't mix recyclable with non-recyclable.
- Bag up empty cement and lime bags carefully and don't generate dust.
- Clearing waste is a priority, leave site clean and tidy at the end of the day.
- Store waste safely.
- Don't allow bins and skips to overflow and contaminate the ground.
- Clear flammable waste to reduce risk of fire.
- Place unused concrete/mortar on a board and dispose when set.
- Collect arisings from cleaning operations regularly.
- Don't allow wash water to enter the ground.

Bonfires can be used to discard waste, but the site must hold a D7 exemption. Make sure fires don't cause a nuisance. Bonfires should be doused at least one hour before the end of the day and checked to make sure they are fully extinguished before you leave site.
